Charles Thomas, Senior, Appears before Rhodes Committee in Seattle

Charles Thomas, senior, represented CPS at the state examinations for the Rhodes Scholarship in Seattle last Thursday. He was one of twelve contestants from the state who were examined at the Edward Meany hotel.

There were five entrants from the University of Washington, four from Washington State college, one from Harvard, a Washington resident, and one from Whitman.

Judges Question Candidates

Each contestant was questioned orally for 30 minutes by the judging committee. The questions asked were related to the major of the entrant and not designed as impossible questions but rather to prompt discussion in order that some idea might be obtained of the general knowledge and intelligence of the candidates.

Aside from the questions concerning his major, each was expected to be well acquainted with current events problems such as the NRA and war debts.

WSC President Heads Group

The committee of judges who questioned the candidates was composed of Dr. E. O. Holland, President of Washington State college, chairman; Normal Littel, Seattle attorney, secretary; Prof. Kenneth C. Cole of the University of Washington, A. G. Reid and F. D. Metzger, Tacoma attorneys.

Charles Thomas was selected as representative of CPS on the basis of his scholarship and participation in student activities.

Winners were Jesse Epstein of the University of Washington law school and Kenneth McClaskey a graduate student in the English department of Washington State college. These men will take regional examinations at Spokane today along with winners of state examinations held in Montana, Idaho, Oregon, North Dakota and Wyoming.

Banker Tells Students Differences in System

Prof. Eichinger Plays Organ In Wednesday's Chapel

Lewis K. Woodford, introduced by William LeVeque in chapel Friday, expressed some of his opinions regarding the banking profession. Mr. Woodford emphasized that business is always under the influence of forces that are tending to produce a change; that there is an old and a new school of banking executives. The distinction is that those of the new school have displayed and are displaying more imagination. Mr. Woodford believes that because the banker must naturally be strictly conservative he must be a follower instead of the leader as commonly thought.

Prof. Walter A. Eichinger and Miss Mary Milone, postgraduate of the Conservatory of Music, presented the musical chapel program last Wednesday. Professor Eichinger at the organ played "Choral in E Major" and "Panis Angelicus" by Franck. Miss Milone sang "Ave Maria" by Reger, accompanied by Professor Eichinger.

'Journey's End' Cast Rehearses Year's Big Play

Capable Group Will Present All-College Production In February

By Gladys Neff

With the selection of an experienced cast, rehearsals for the year's most ambitious dramatic production "Journey's End" are starting this week. "Journey's End," which describes 48 hours in a dugout behind the front-line trenches at St. Quentin, has been acclaimed by critics as "the greatest war play ever written."

Contrast to 'What Price Glory'

In contrast to the flaunted profanity and obscenity of "What Price Glory," the fighting men of "Journey's End," maintain throughout, all the humor, terror and heart-break of the deportment of gentlemen, one critic observes. The same observer adds, however, that the play is not a boudoir version of trench warfare, but reality magnificently transferred to the stage.

Miss Martha Pearl Jones has assembled a strong cast. Kenneth Powers has been chosen to play Captain Stanhope, a 21 year old youth whose four years of service have not dimmed a superb sense of duty, but have caused him to rely on drink to dull his feelings and his fears.

LeVeque Has Role

William LeVeque is to portray the lovable middle-aged schoolmaster, Lieutenant Osborne. Second Lieutenant Raleigh, the young and inexperienced lad just out of school, will be played by Creighton Flynn. Arthur Linn has the part of Trotter, a second Lieutenant with an infinite good nature but without imagination. The character of Second Lieutenant Hibbert, the would-be deserter, has been awarded to Bill James. Ed House will be Hardy, a typical inefficient captain. Harold Tollefson has been selected to enact the amusing company cook, Private Mason. Wayne Butchart is to be the German soldier.

"Journey's End" will be given two evenings early in February.

R. C. Sheriff, the author, was in the war himself. The play has been produced in English, French, German and other languages. During its New York run, seats were sold out eight weeks in advance of performances.

Mesa Redonda Hears Of Spanish Dramatist

Entire Speech Presented in Castillian Tongue

Life and works of Lope de Vega, a great dramatist and founder of the Spanish theater, were the contents of a talk given by Paul Salisbury at La Mesa Redonda meeting Tuesday evening in the reception room. "La Moz de Cantaro" by de Vega and "Byzantium" composed by Mr. Salisbury, were two poems which were read during the discourse.

Mr. Salisbury is a Spanish major and graduate of the University of Oklahoma and has also attended the University of California at Berkeley.

Another feature of the evening's program was the formal pledging of Robert Reid, senior.

The meeting was the last one of this semester. Mrs. Charles A. Robbins, advisor for the club, reminds those who have had the equivalent of one year of college Spanish, that they may consider La Mesa Redonda as their outside activity.

CPS Hoopsters Open Schedule On January 15

Practice Games Result in Win
And Loss with Independent Teams

Logger basketballers closed their 1933 practice sessions with clashes against Gilmore Oil of Seattle and the Superior Dairy five of Tacoma, two of the Northwest's leading independent teams.

The Gilmore encounter was lost by a score of 45-29. CPS held the score down until the last quarter, when the Oilers became basket-conscious. Score at half-time was 17-12 in favor of Gilmore.

Defeat Superior Team

Showing improved team-work and a more successful attack the Loggers took the Superior quint into camp by an unofficial score of 42-30. In an earlier encounter the Loggers dropped a close tilt to the Dairymen.

With the opening of the '34 schedule, but one week away, Coach Roy Sandberg is concentrating on ironing out the rough spots in the Logger attack and defense. The squad is formed around a nucleus of four returning lettermen, but several freshmen are pressing hard for regular positions.

In experimenting with various combinations, Sandy has yet to find one entirely satisfactory. A practice scrimmage Wednesday afternoon against the Stadium high school squad failed to show the sprinkling of onlookers a sparkling brand of ball. The Loggers had little trouble on the offense but showed a weakness in the back court in letting their smaller opponents through for frequent short shots.

Schedule Practice Scrimmages

The most effective five on the floor was that composed of "Swede" Lindquist at center, flanked by Capt. Stan Bates at one forward post and Roy Carlson at the other. The guard positions were handled by Park Gagnon and Em Piper. Bill Command, Vaughn Stoeffel and George Pollock also showed a nice brand of ball during the scrimmage. Other practice scrimmages are being arranged for this week in a final drive to polish the team's attack and defense before their first game.

Open at Home

The Loggers open the season at home against the strong five from Columbia university of Portland, January 15, in a two-game series. The following week they meet UW at Seattle in a single game before dropping competitive play for a two-week period during finals. Conference play is opened when Whitman appears February 5, 6 at the Logger gym. U of Montana follows immediately on the schedule in a two-game stand. The peak of the Logger schedule is reached one week later when they swing off on a week's barnstorming tour.

There is a possibility that games

The final games saw the Zetes trim the Peter Pugets easily 15-3 and 15-4. The Sigma Mu Chi team beat the Chi Nu's 18-16, 8-15 and 15-12. The Mu Chi's also whipped the Delta Kappa Phi squad, 15-10, 3-15 and 15-9. The Delta Pi Omicron and Delta Kappa Phi teams were each awarded games by the forfeit route, when the Witan men failed to show up for these games. One game was played last week in the "B" volleyball league. The Sigma Mu Chi team whipped the Delta Kappa Phi seconds in two straight games, 15-10 and 15-12.

Northwest conference schedules were drawn up at a recent meeting of the coaches at Portland. The conference track and field meet will be held at Walla Walla, May 30. In the tennis play-off each school will be represented by a three-man team, a singles player and a doubles team. There will also be a women's play-off with the tentative date and place being May 26 at Willamette university, Salem, Oregon.

The football schedule drawn by CPS virtually makes the Loggers a traveling team in conference play. Gonzaga will be a new opponent this year with the strong possibility that the University of Idaho might also be added for September 22. The 1934 Puget Sound schedule is as follows:

September 22: U. of Idaho, tentative
September 29: Albany College at Tacoma
October 6: College of Idaho, at Caldwell
October 13: Whitman College at Walla Walla
October 20: Gonzaga University (Place to be decided)

Sound Three, Whitman
Two and Pacific One

Northwest conference football mentors announced their all-conference selections recently and placed five Willamette gridmen, three from the repeating title holders, Puget Sound, two from Whitman and one from Pacific. The three who were named from CPS are Jack Sprenger, guard, unanimous choice for this berth; Burdette Sterling, quarterback, for the second time, and Roy Carlson, end, captain-elect.

A disappointment was felt when Jimmy Ennis, considered one of the flashiest ball toters ever seen in Northwest play, was not named on the first string or even given honorable mention. Oravec of Willamette was given the left half berth.

Jack Sprenger, playing his last year of college football, received the most votes and was chosen captain of the team.

All-Conference selections are:

Ends—Carlson, CPS and Kaiser, Willamette.

Tackles—Weisser, Willamette and Nelson, Whitman.

Guards—Grannis, Willamette and Sprenger (C) CPS.

Center—Douglas, Pacific.

Halfbacks—Oravec, Willamette and Gibson, Whitman.

Quarterback—Sterling, CPS.

Fullback—Olson, Willamette.

Honorable mention was given to Cummins, Whitman and Carberry, Pacific, ends; Balovic, Willamette, Slatter, CPS and Lemcke, Pacific, tackles; Gagnon, CPS, center; Franz, Willamette and Barret, Linfield, quarterbacks; Helser, Linfield, halfback; Booth, Linfield, Davidson and Brooks, CPS, fullbacks.

Coach Sandberg Honored

CPS's popular coach, Roy Sandberg, was honored by the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce at its annual meeting when he was selected by the group as one of Tacoma's most useful citizens for the year 1933. Sandberg was given this well-deserved distinction because of his success in bringing the football championship of the Northwest conference to the College of Puget Sound and to Tacoma.

No one deserves this honor more than does the Logger mentor, for he has taken the football situation by the horns and raised it to its greatest height that it has reached during the entire history of the institution. Sandberg, however, is not only a coach but a leader and supporter of the College's program in its fullest sense. A winning personality and a sound knowledge of coaching principles have made him popular and successful in the past and will continue to make him so in the future. HERE'S TO ONE OF CPS'S GREATEST ASSETS AND ONE OF TACOMA'S MOST USEFUL CITIZENS. —A. L.

Collegiate Echoes

By Arthur Disdaine

Exactly 39 freshmen at the Florida U. were promised the freshman class presidency during the active campaigning of rush week. (There are only 39 houses.)

Efforts are being made at Colorado U. toward denobbing the campus. Every student crossing the bridge over the lake must shake hands with every one he meets. So far it has been successful.

The UW is giving a course in "bluffing." It is given in conjunction with the English and History departments.

Students at Amherst college bet on the number of the hymn to be called for in chapel.

A back to the farm movement has begun at Pittsburg U. where the coeds have become wrapped up in a crocheting vogue and really expect to wear "homespun."

Yale library soon is to receive from Gabriel Wells a manuscript of a sermon believed to have been written by Samuel Johnson.

In the library of Indiana U. are many valuable Japanese prints which had been used as wrapping paper many years ago and found just recently in a trash heap. (It must have been SOME trash heap.)

Prof. Maddy at Michigan is conducting a music course over the radio to 6000 students.

A Detroit city college track star, in need of dental work but out of funds took three gold medals received for conference records to the dentist who used part of the gold in the teeth and accepted the rest in payment for the work. (That's a good way for a girl to get rid of "That Old Fraternity Pin.")

After our vacation daze we all have ego-centric hallucinations, ingrown toe-nails, and stimulus response units of Parenoia (or aren't you even conscious yet? Jack Leik wasn't at 11 a. m. on January 4)—So what—So we'll have to start our usual shirking, excuse it, we mean working again.

According to our Dramatic teacher, directors are supposed to help the actors and actresses with their lines—most actresses can handle their lines pretty well as it is, we think.

The girl stood on the freezing street And was looking rather coy She wasn't waiting for a car What she wanted was a boy.

Not so long ago the University of Washington would not recognize the scholastic abilities of CPS. Now comes word that university students are not so far advanced themselves.

"Mothers and fathers who are loath to let their children enter college unassisted are really injuring the initiative of young men and women," states the article.

"Not only are several first-year students registered by their parents, but also the older students. Some parents continue to hold protecting wings over their children for the four years they are in college instead of letting them think for themselves."

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Georgia is offering a course for students who are preparing for consular or other foreign service.

Puget Sound Academy Holds Annual Meeting

With the election of officers for the year as the chief item of business, the Puget Academy of Science will hold its annual meeting this evening at 6:30 at the YWCA, 4th and Broadway.

The meeting will be preceded by a dinner, to which all members and guests are invited.

W. E. Priestly of Seattle will be the principal speaker, and will have for his subject "Formosa, the Land of Head Hunters."

Lucille Berry Has Lead in Art Theater

Lucille Berry, a freshman is cast to play the feminine lead in the forthcoming production of "The Crime At Blossoms," a literary mystery play to be given by the Civic Art Theater, January 26, under the direction of Ruth Radford.

Miss Berry is to play the part of Valerie Merryman, the mystic, mysterious mistress of "Blossoms" where the crime is committed. Alice Shelton and Ruth Moline are also cast in important roles.

CPS Graduate Teaches, Works for M. A. Degree

Between teaching at Pacific Colony and working for her masters degree at Claremont colleges in Los Angeles, Mildred Eaken, '33, finds her time taken up with many interesting things, according to a letter received by Prof. Robert D. Sinclair recently.

Miss Eaken is teaching feeble-minded children at the Pacific colony at Spadra about 50 miles from Los Angeles. There she is studying tics, of which there are about 48 kinds. Tics are spasmodic twitching of the muscles such as squinting the eyes and arching the eyebrows. The institution is three years old with modern buildings and equipment, which handles about 692 patients.

Potluck Dinner Set

The Women's Athletic Association potluck dinner for the new pledges has been postponed to January 12, at 5:30 at Marguerite McMaster's home, 118 North Oakes.

Women must sign up by Wednesday on the bulletin board in the gym, and everyone will be asked to bring something for the dinner. For further announcements women may see the bulletin board in the gym.

The swimming party formerly posted for that night is indefinitely postponed.

Library Has New Books

According to Warren L. Perry, librarian, the Christmas vacation was not all "that way," if one can draw any conclusions from the number of books that were taken out over the holidays. Five hundred new books were displayed the last week of school and more than three hundred checked out in addition to the many others regularly on the shelves.

Tickets Are Available

Tickets for the final Seattle Symphony concert may be obtained from Morris Summers, secretary of the Conservatory of Music. The date of this concert is January 16. Summers has also a limited number of tickets for the Roland Hayes concert, which will be given in Tacoma on January 12.

The Watch Dog

Six members of a certain fraternity have been involved in automobile accidents this semester—there were just as many reckless drivers back in the olden days, only the horses had some sense . . . Seth Innis' lady for the moment is Jane Ramsby, or is Mr. Innis in another time-era again.

Marion Winge wound up the old year with a record of dates on every night but six since the start of school . . . if we didn't have an anamosity toward puns, we'd say that was high flying for Winge . . . personal nomination for the best simile of the month: "As busy as the elevator boy at Mae West's apartments."

Creighton Flynn asked us recently who was leading the Tuberculosis league . . . We're still trying to find out, but will tell him that we finally found a club which he can join—it's the Bok-Of-The-Month club . . . A former orchestra leader with whom you Stadium graduates hob-nobbed around in the late '20s and early '30s is now stooging for a comedian (?) and playing the piano at a Seattle burlesque show.

New Year's eve activities (which includes both Saturday and Sunday nights) of our social lineup were: Ann Strobel bossing Walt Olson around Saturday and ski-tumbling with Dayton Finnigan on our fair mountain next day . . . Mike Leuenberger listening to the cooings of Mildred Lyons on one night and McElroying in Seattle on the other . . . Mildred Anderson without Bill Hipple on either evening . . . Bob Smyth pie-raiding for his "Maxie" . . . Dore Roberts being told Sunday evening how Stanford was to beat Columbia the next day.

New Year's day's dominating conviction: If the prohibitionists would have been able to set the repeal election date for January 1, it would have been a landslide for the "water wagon" brigade.

Jack Green, tuxedo bedecked, and Evalyn Mellinger, garbed in that smart, wine-colored, floor-sweeping dress, viewed Katherine Cornell's recent presentation at the Temple with the rest of the elites . . . Thelma Melsnes and Al Winterhouse, who's still being irked by those "Summer-cottage" teeth-gritting jokes, appear to be that way, if you know what we mean.

Jane "Jimmie" Bickle's chief troubles these days are to avoid being mistaken for Annabel Biggle and to keep up with the winsome wit of one Dave Snyder . . . Even if "Pat" Steele, Lois Mullan and Bettie Fox couldn't hang tough, we'll have to toss a bouquet into the lap of Al Brown, our chief worry along these tie-up lines, who came back from California with the life savings still in his own name.

Things that get in our hair: Women who change their given name or add "Ann" or "Jane" or "Lee" onto it just to be different . . . red-hued finger nails (and that doesn't mean that we won't let any woman, finger nails or no finger nails, run her hands through our barbecued locks) . . . radio announcers who apparently think a collective noun is a vacuum cleaner, and insist upon using the pronoun "their" when the noun of the sentence is singular . . . men-seeking females . . . dandruff . . . and the persons who criticise other people's names, finger nails, grammar, charms and his own inability to care for his hair correctly.

Going Places and Doing Things

People playing "Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater" with MELBA ALLEMAN—FRED LANE taking a long cold drink of water—EUNICE ALLEN buying rouge—PARK GAGNON needing a shave—BETTIE FOX furnishing us with a news item—PAT STEELE ditto, that's all—GEN GRIMES renting her chapel seat for a consideration—ED HOUSE showing off—WILMA SELLS studying the art of window-cleaning—PROF. SLATER exhibiting the result of skull-drugery—BEBE KING: Alice in Wonderland—HELEN GALBRAITH getting blue in the face in a brown study considering white lies—LAWRENCE MUNZ skipping on principle—ELZA DAHLGREN taking violent exception to the theory of snobism—GLOOM descending as finals approach—a number of our leading citizens serving time in the TRAIL TOWER.

A University of Washington survey shows that the average college student carries more money in his pocket than the average professor does, and that the professor's secretary carries more than the two of them combined.
